Active Shooter Threat Recognition (ASTR)

FBI research reveals that close to 100% of Active Shooter Incidents in the workplace are perpetrated by former or current employees. An NYPD study echoed this conclusion and stressed the importance of prevention, urging employers to encourage prompt reporting of potentially violent employees. A study by the US Secret Service went further and identified a number of actions, behaviors, personality traits, stressors and triggers exhibited by Active Shooters and other violent persons. GSG has used this combined data as well as materials from other law enforcement sources to develop a comprehensive program designed to help employers prevent acts of violence by teaching them to recognize risk factors and other warning signs common to violent actors. GSG has created a comprehensive 50 (+) point Threat Assessment Checklist to help supervisors, managers and HR personnel in this process. The training program includes:

- Risk of Violence Behavioral Indicators
- Creating a Zero Tolerance Violence Policy
- Identifying Grievances (Real or Imagined)
- Fixations
- Recognizing Mental Health Issues
- Anger Management Issues
- Aggressive Narcissism
- Assessing Employee Communications
- Contacts with Law Enforcement

- Fascination with Weapons or Violent Incidents
- Stressors / Triggers
- Recognizing & Documenting Concerning Behavior
- Importance of Monitoring Social Media
- Domestic Violence Issues & the Workplace
